DORRIGO CELEBRATES ITS NEW MEETING SPACE

The new meeting room at the Dorrigo Library was officially opened on Saturday 23 July.

Funded by Section 94 development, the new meeting room will not only provide a quiet space for library users to read, study or work, but its accessibility after hours allows it to be used by the community for meetings and workshops. The room is fitted with a small kitchenette and free wi-fi and is now available for booking via the Dorrigo Library.

Following on from the opening, local author, Hazel Buchanan shared her journey of writing and publishing her book, Surviving Anna. Surviving Anna tells the story of Laura Vine as she embarks on the most important journey of her life. Outwardly, Laura is devoted to her career and embraces her independent Sydney lifestyle. But a childhood tragedy has left its mark and Laura has a secret she has never dared to share. Her grief lies buried deep, unexplored and unresolved.

A personal but captivated audience shared cake and enjoyed the new space that is now available for community use.

Please contact Dorrigo Library for room bookings 6657 2234.
